Tim Jackson

Tim Jackson is Professor of Sustainable Development at the University of Surrey and Director of the ESRC Research Group on Lifestyles, Values and Environment (RESOLVE). Funded by the UK Economic and Social Research Council, the aim of RESOLVE is to develop a robust understanding of the links between lifestyle, societal values and the environment, and to provide evidence-based advice to policy-makers seeking to influence people's lifestyles and practices. Prof Jackson also directs the newly-awarded Defra/ESRC Sustainable Lifestyles Research Group. From 2004 to 2011 he was Economics Commissioner on the UK Sustainable Development Commission, where his work culminated in the publication of the controversial book Prosperity without Growth – economics for a finite planet (Earthscan 2009). In addition to his academic work, Tim is an award-winning dramatist with numerous radio writing credits for the BBC.

Helen McCallum

Helen Mc Callum was appointed Director General of Consumers International in May 2011, following four years as Director of Policy, Advocacy and Communications at UK consumer group, "Which?". She previously held a variety of leadership roles: as Director of Corporate Affairs for the UK Environment Agency 2001-2007; Director of Communications in the UK Department of Health 1999-2001, and Head of Communications for the National Health Service. 1994-1999. She has also served on the CI Executive, and the Executive of BEUC, the European consumers association.

Jochen Flasbarth

Jochen Flasbarth is president of the Federal Environment Agency in Germany. He studied economics, political science and philosophy in Münster and Bonn. He worked as chief editor at the publishing house Economica and he acted as President of the Nature and Biodiversity Conservation Union. He was Director General: "Nature Conservation and Sustainable Use of Natural Resources" at the Federal Ministry for the Environment, in Germany and has been active in nature conservation on a honorary basis, as a member of the former German Federation for the Protection of Birds, Executive Board and the Executive Committee of the German League for Nature and Environment (DNR) and as a founder board member of the Traffic Club Germany.

Martin Unfried

Martin Unfried is an environmental expert who sometimes got bored at conferences. He asked himself how green political parties can survive if consumers even freak out about lightbulbs, speed limits and green taxes? He decided to go out and win back the consumer's enthusiasm for a new sustainable culture and some "emotional climate intelligence". He studied politics and theater sciences and worked as a journalist for public and private radio and TV. To fight for a sustainable culture, he publishes his successful "Ecosex" column in several online media. He is working at the European Institute of Public Administration in Maastricht .
